

Green Impact Project Report

Simon persuaded Anne to try an active travel route home.

Anne normally drives to work and back.

Here are some pics and a report from Anne:

What a great day out start to finish. I picked up the electric bike from a local shop then got a train into Edinburgh then onto Eskbank. I met lovely people on the train and taking the bike on was easy. Simon told me about a very easy path that took me straight to the practice door and it only took about 10 mins from the station.

At 5 o'clock Simon and I set off to Penicuik Down a wonderful path. It was straight, off road, easy and very scenic and we picked a beautiful night. I managed to keep up easily with Simon on a level surfaces but the electric bike powered past him on the hills. We went to the pub for tea and because I wasn't driving we had a little drink and then we headed for the hills. It was slightly rough and challenging. We were riding our bikes into the sunset and it was beautiful. We got back to Kirknewton before dark. Excellent day all round.
